BRITISH COLUMBIA VANCOUVER ROBBED BY ARMED MEN

LAST ACTS OF TOLME PARTY MAY BE UPSET

Will Not Be Recognized If Against Interests of Public, Says Premier Pattullo

Statement Prompted By Reference to Crescent Beach and Ladner Bridge

Announcements made by Premier Pattullo when he was leader of the opposition in the Legislature and during the election campaign that last minute acts of the Tolmie government would not be considered binding if he were head of the next administration were confirmed by him this morning.

Speaking as Premier of the province Mr. Pattullo made the announcement to newspapermen in answer to questions put to him on the Crescent Beach land sale agreement and the Ladner Bridge contract, both of which have drawn considerable criticism, and the latter vigorous opposition from both Liberals and Conservatives as it passed in the dying hours of the last Legislature.

Mr. Pattullo said he had not had time to go into the details of those matters. "But," he added, "following my assertions published and in the Legislature, if I find these transactions against the public interests I do not propose to recognize them."

The statement was understood to apply only to last minute contracts or commitments made by the defunct government. Outstanding in this regard is the Ladner Street Bridge, which attracted the greatest hostility when the bill binding the government to obligations over a long period of years was brought before the Legislature. In face of a storm of protest from New Westminster and other parts of the province after the Legislature prorogued the government, which it was pointed out was acting after its normal form of office had expired, and in some instances after the Legislature had been dissolved, proceeded to implement the bill. Many thousands of dollars in drilling and preliminary expenses have been reported spent on the Ladner bridge project, which, while not specifically mentioned by Premier Pattullo, comes in the class of one of the last commitments of the Tolmie government.

Granada, Spain, Nov. 16.—Twenty-five persons were killed when a busload of members of the Socialist Party fell over a 250-foot cliff on the highway between Huesca and Jaca today. The bus was part of a caravan of Socialists who had attended a political meeting at Castril.

British Negotiate For Soviet Timber

Group of Companies Reported Arranging to Import Great Quantity For Sale in United Kingdom in 1934; Bennett Cables London

Canadian Press
London, Nov. 16.—Negotiations for a new contract for 1934 season have been begun between Timber Distributors Limited, handlers of Russian timber in Britain, and the Soviet trading organization in Britain, according to The London Morning Post, which adds it understands Prime Minister R. B. Bennett, on learning of this, cabled the British Government, asking speeding up of consideration of the Canadian complaint against imports from Russia.

The Morning Post, which has been following the matter very closely, said it was expected that under the new contract Timber Distributors would arrange to sell 400,000 standards of Russian timber in the coming year. (The old Petrograd "standard" consists of 165 cubic feet, which would make such a contract equivalent to 66,000,000 cubic feet, or 792,000,000 feet board measure, as used in Canada.)

The newspaper said it had informed Prime Minister Bennett by telephone yesterday, and he expressed gratitude for the information, but said that in the circumstances he was unable to discuss the matter. The Post added it understood on good authority that Prime Minister Bennett cabled the British Government "most vigorous representations for speeding up consideration of the Canadian case in the negotiation for a new Anglo-Soviet trading agreement."

SENT TO MOSCOW
Canada has long been concerned at Britain's big imports of Russian timber and recently the Canadian Government represented to the British Government this was against the understanding in the Ottawa Conference agreement. The British Board of Trade forwarded the Canadian complaint to Moscow, which aroused some adverse comment in view of the fact negotiations are in progress for a new Anglo-Soviet trade agreement as well as the new timber contract. Hon. G. Howard Ferguson, Canadian High Commissioner to Great Britain, and the Canadian Government held it essential the Canadian case be dealt with before these agreements should be concluded.

CHIEF WARNS CAR DRIVERS

Chief of Police Thomas Heather today issued a warning to automobile owners regarding the locking of their machines in public places. Investigation of an outbreak of car thefts recently has shown that in practically all cases the machines were either left unlocked or the keys left in, he said. By making sure their cars are locked when left unattended drivers could greatly assist in curbing the thefts, he added.

TREATY BARS WAY
Hon. E. N. Rhodes, Minister of Finance, told the delegation the Imperial Conference agreement with South Africa, signed in 1932, bound the Canadian Government to respect the present rates for a period of five years. No move could be made to alter the agreement in the respect suggested, unless it was initiated in South Africa, he said.

Minister of Finance Makes His First Discovery; Old Office Surprises Him

Ministers Settle Down to Their Jobs and Hold First Cabinet Meeting

Co-operation was the keynote struck by the members of Premier Pattullo's new cabinet as they took over their duties at the Parliament Buildings yesterday. The eight men who have been chosen to form the Liberal administration arrived at the buildings yesterday afternoon about 2 o'clock after the swearing in ceremony and spent the rest of the day meeting the deputy ministers, secretaries and other members of their staffs. In the evening they held a cabinet meeting.

No members of the old Tolmie cabinet were on hand to meet them and conduct them to their departments. Later in the day some of the former ministers arrived to greet the men who have been chosen to follow them. Dr. S. F. Tolmie called to undertake a short handing over ceremony of the financial relations between the Premier for news and camera men. J. W. Jones, former Minister of Finance, visited the new ministers.

The new ministers had no comment to make yesterday on matters of policy. "We have definite plans and we shall do things which we are confident will be in the best interests of the province. As we said it will be time to talk," summarized the general text of the comments of most of the new ministers. All voiced the view that complete co-operation in the cabinet was both essential and assured.

Hon. John Hart entered a familiar but changed office in the Ministry of Finance. There was a stenographer in the ante-room but no one else to hand over the office which he occupied ten years ago. He whistled in surprise.

"This is the office but it wasn't like this when I was here," he commented. The luxuriance with which W. C. Shelly surrounded himself when he became the first Minister of Finance of the Tolmie Government prompted the comment. For the once ordinary carpet Mr. Shelly substituted a rich, lustrous floor covering in which visitors sink almost to their ankles. A miniature art gallery of pictures adorns the walls. The furniture is in the choicest taste and the lounge and chairs of the kind that tempt visitors to outstay the scheduled length of visits.

"Witness that," Mr. Hart commented as he opened a drawer of the Finance Minister's desk. "We can never say now the treasury was empty when we entered office. (Here is a penny in this drawer.)"

University Appeal On Damages To Be Heard

Canadian Press
Edmonton, Nov. 16.—Ruling no valid grounds had been given by the applicant, the Alberta Appeal Court today dismissed with costs a motion by the University of Alberta to take an appeal from the judgment, awarding $56,860 to Horatio and Armand Foviel, direct to the Supreme Court of Canada.

At the same time the court allowed an application on behalf of the Alberta Attorney-General's Department to intervene in the appeal.

The judgment forced the appellants to make an appeal before the Alberta Appellate Division first. It will likely be heard at the post sitting of the Appeal Court here in January.

The Foviels obtained the $56,860 judgment when the father brought action against the university, charging his son had suffered mentally from university initiations.

Paris Counsel For Canadian

Mrs. Hardy, who was struck over the head, is in the American Hospital, recovering from injuries now reported to have been slight.

CIVIC HEADS SEEK ACTION

Municipal Union to Meet New Government Shortly on Relief Problem

Hon. A. Wells Gray Resigns Office of Secretary; Early Convention Planned

The Union of B.C. Municipalities will lose no time in placing its views on unemployment relief and provincial-municipal relationships before the Pattullo government, it was announced this morning by Reece William Crouch, the president.

On November 24 a meeting of the union executive will be held in Vancouver, primarily for the purpose of discussing unemployment relief, and it is planned to name a small delegation which will meet the cabinet shortly afterwards.

This move is designed to arm Premier Pattullo with the municipal side of the relief problem before he departs for Ottawa.

At the same time the resignation of Hon. A. Wells Gray, Minister of Lands, from the secretaryship, Mr. Gray has held this post for more than a decade and, said Mr. Crouch, his services will be sorely missed by the union.

The executive will also make arrangements for an early convention of the annual municipal elections, and representations for the next session of the Legislature. It is proposed to hold the convention as soon as possible after the annual municipal elections are finished in January, so ample time will be allowed for preparation of the brief. It is probable an entirely new system of financial relations between the province and the municipalities will be considered.

Coteau, Que., Nov. 16.—The freighter Scotsman, which for many years plied on the Ottawa-Montreal run, sank today about half a mile west of the dock here in the St. Lawrence River, while on a voyage from Montreal to Pictou, Ont. The crew of fourteen men and one woman were able to save themselves by jumping into a lifeboat and rowing to shore.

TINY GIRL ATTACKED

Police Aroused By Victoria West Affair; Lured Into Automobile

City police to-day are investigating an indecent assault allegedly committed yesterday on a three-year-old girl resident in Victoria West.

According to the information furnished detectives the little child was enticed into an automobile while playing near her home. She was missing when the car was picked up by Hereward Road, six or seven blocks away, by a neighbor who took her home.

The child told of being taken away by a man in the car and there was evidence that she had been assaulted. She was placed under care of a medical man to-day.

Police officials who received the information were greatly incensed and Chief Heatley immediately ordered special investigation of the case. Nothing would be left undone to bring the culprit to justice, he said.

Railroad officials blamed breaking of a rail for the accident. Two of the seven cars turned over completely. Others came to rest at precarious angles. Only fifteen car windows were broken.

Liners Abandon Search For Crew of Twenty-seven Missing After SOS Calls

Canadian Press and Associated Press
Valencia, Irish Free State, Nov. 16.—The steamship Manchester Regiment abandoned her twenty-four-hour search for the stricken British freighter Saxilby to-day shortly after the great liner Berengaria and the Dutch steamer Boschdyk had been forced to quit their rescue efforts.

Abandonment of the quest by the Manchester Regiment was announced in a wireless message in which the ship reported she had sighted no wreckage and was afraid it was absolutely impossible for lifeboats to survive such weather as she was encountering.

With the Manchester Regiment's withdrawal from the scene, hope was generally abandoned for the little cargo ship Saxilby and her human freight of twenty-seven souls.

No trace found. The two rescue ships, which had battled a storm-torn Atlantic since yesterday morning in response to SOS calls, announced by wireless they had found no trace of the apparently doomed ship or her crew and were forced to give up their efforts.

Two Toronto Stock Exchanges To Unite

Canadian Press
Toronto, Nov. 16.—Agreement has been reached for amalgamation of the two Toronto stock exchanges, the Toronto Stock Exchange and the Standard Stock and Mining Exchange, according to an announcement to-day by Harold Franks, president of the Toronto Stock Exchange. Formal ratification will be carried out by members of each exchange at general meetings to be called shortly.

Amalgamation will give Toronto the largest exchange on the North American continent outside of New York City. Pending arrangements for housing the combined exchange under one roof, business will be carried on both rooms under the management of joint committees.

Owing to the fact the Toronto Exchange operates under an Act of the Legislature (1878) and therefore has wider powers than the standard market, which operates under a charter, the name of the new concern will be known as the Toronto Stock Exchange. Members of both exchanges will be eligible for membership in the new organization and the property of the two concerns will be merged.

At present the Toronto Stock Exchange has sixty-two members and the Standard has sixty-one.

"CADDY" VISITS CLOVER POINT

Early Morning Swimmers See Sea Serpent While Taking Morning Dip

Wilf. Woodward and Morris Phil Report Sighting Monster Last Week

Two of Victoria's early morning swimmers who are in the habit of taking a daily dip in the waters of Ross Bay saw Cadborosaurus, the serpent, while swimming last Thursday morning at 6:30 o'clock.

The two men, Wilf Woodward, 3443 Cook Street, and Morris Phil, 1587 Fairfield Road, judged "Caddy's" length to be about fifty feet and watched him for about ten minutes off Clover Point.

"My companion, Mr. Phil, first sighted this moving object in the water and drew my attention to it," said Mr. Woodward in a statement to The Times this morning. "What can that be out there?" he asked me. I looked and saw a large moving object, the main body of which seemed to be about ten feet long and bulky enough to be seen easily although it was slightly foggy. It was moving as rapidly as the boats to Vancouver and was traveling towards Trial Island from Clover Point.

"What convinced us that this was something unusual and was 'Caddy,' was that not only its size but its total length which, as far as we could judge, was fifty feet. After we watched for about ten minutes the main body submerged, leaving only the head and tail above the water. From where we were the head looked as large as that of a horse and while moving along it appeared to be looking from one side to the other. After several minutes it changed its course and instead of traveling directly towards Trial Island, it headed across the Straits."

FOREIGNERS FEAR ELECTION

After we watched for about ten minutes the main body submerged, leaving only the head and tail above the water. ALLEGED CHILD KIDNAP THREAT

Miami Police Told of $3,000 Paid to Save Late Chicago Mayor's Granddaughter

Associated Press
Miami, Fla., Nov. 16.—Despite denials of the story from the child's mother, Dade County authorities to-day pushed an investigation into an alleged plot to kidnap the granddaughter of the late Mayor Anton Cermak of Chicago.

W. W. Wood, Miami politician, in a sworn statement to County Solicitor Fred Pine, said the alleged abductors had demanded a total of $65,000 under threats to kidnap three-year-old Mary Alice Kenley, daughter of Mrs. Helen Cermak Kenley of Chicago, and later threatened to kill the child, its mother and himself.

Pine further quoted Wood as saying he had already paid the alleged abductors $3,000.

EX-ALDERMAN MAY RETURN

R. A. C. Dewar Proposed For Council; Retired Two Years Ago

Ex-alderman R. A. C. Dewar, who gave up his seat on the City Council two years ago after twelve consecutive years in office, has been asked to again run for the office of alderman at the election this year. It was learned this morning.

Mr. Dewar was non-committal when asked for a statement but admitted he was considering the matter. A determined effort will be made by his friends to have him back on the council, however.

During his term on the council Mr. Dewar was one of its most popular members and commanded the respect of both those inside and outside of the civic administration. He was the senior member of the council in point of service when he retired. He served under five different mayors and at various times, handled all the civic departments.

He was first elected to the council in 1920, running on a Trades and Labor Council ticket with two others, being the only one of a trio to receive sufficient public support to gain office. He came back for six consecutive terms and was never defeated at the polls.

In view of the need for stable men on the council at the present time, his friends are convinced Mr. Dewar would be an asset if he returned to the board. His decision is expected in a short time.

Clerks Lined Up Against Wall While Gunmen Scoop Up Cash and Dash From Building; Police Soon Find Abandoned Car

Fifth Time Manager Has Been Robbed

Canadian Press
Vancouver, Nov. 16.—Two armed bandits held up the staff of the Royal Bank of Canada branch at Seventeenth and Dunbar Street here shortly after noon to-day and escaped in a stolen car with approximately $500 in cash.

The gunmen lined the bank employees against the wall while they were opening the safe and scooping up the money it contained.

Shortly after the men had fled, police found the stolen automobile abandoned not far from the bank. J. E. Devereaux, manager of the branch, has been held up five times within the last three years in various branches in Vancouver.

JAPAN'S SEA POWER GROWS

Depot Ship Launched To-day; Big Capital Ship to Be Extensively Refitted

Five Submarines Building, Four Sanctioned and Six Projected

Tokio, Nov. 16.—Japan's onward swing toward increased power at sea was signalled to-day by launching of a new submarine depot-ship and an order placing in reserve the Mutou, her most formidable battleship. Soon, it was understood, the Mutou is to be modernized, and a new base of operations in fighting equipment added to her present strength.

More than 100,000 persons, veritable naval parades, reported, turned out at Yokosuka, principal base of the sea forces, for a spectacular festival at launching of the Tulei, meaning "big whale."

The depot-ship, a 7,500-ton vessel, is not in itself an important ship, but the navy seized the occasion to impress the nation with its power and glory and to emphasize its demands for record appropriations next year.

To-day the Japanese navy has in commission six submarines of all types, totaling 72,294 tons. Five more undersea fighters are under construction, four others already sanctioned and six more projected for launching down before the end of 1936.

Hon. George S. Pearson, Minister of Mines and Minister of Labor, was one of the first men to arrive on the job. He immediately began to make himself conversant with the interior workings of his department.

Mr. Pearson welcomed the opportunity to serve in departments which offered him opportunities for public service, he intimated, but added he entered upon those duties with a full sense of the heavy responsibilities resting upon his shoulders. SIR A. CURRIE STEADILY GAINS those with whom he came in contact on his first day as a man of method and efficiency and of few words, but all to the point.

Montreal, Nov. 16.—The condition of Gen. Sir Arthur Currie, principal of McGill University, seriously ill in a hospital here, "continues to improve," according to physicians to-day.

"There are no announcements to make public at this time," he said. "The newspapers from time to time can help the Department of Education by making public information which the people of the province should have. I hope and feel sure we shall receive their co-operation on those occasions."

Hon. F. M. MacPherson, Minister of Public Works, was among the ministers who emphasized that the evident desire for co-operation shown by all members of the cabinet was among the most striking indications of success in putting into force the policies of the Liberal Party as they had been outlined.

PRESENTATION
Hon. Gordon McG. Sloan, Attorney-General, after formally taking over his office, made a call at the office of the Minister of Mines, which his father, the late Hon. William Sloan, once occupied. His visit recalled to a member of the staff that the late Mr. Sloan had at one time taken to the office the christening mug of his son, whose rise to political honors as the youngest Attorney-General of British Columbia he did not live to see. The cup was handed to Mr. Sloan.

Apologies were due from newspapermen to Hon. K. C. MacDonald, the new Minister of Agriculture from North Okanagan, which his father, the late Hon. William Sloan, once occupied. Although pictures received at newspaper offices since the campaign had opened showed the beard which he used to wear has gone.

Ss. Saxilby Believed Lost in the Atlantic

The Saxilby's crew, which abandoned their helpless ship in the mountainous waves of a storm, were feared lost in their tiny lifeboats. The only hope the men might still be alive was based on the possibility the high wind may have driven the lifeboats and their parent ship far from the spot, 300 miles from the Irish coast, whence the Saxilby set out her last distress call.

ST. QUENTIN SAFE

Meanwhile, relatives of the twenty-eight men of the St. Quentin, another British freighter, helpless after she lost her steering gear in the same storm-swept region of the Atlantic, were relieved by word the ship was in no immediate danger.

Both freighters were reported about 300 miles off the Irish coast. The twenty-seven members of the crew of the Saxilby were understood to have taken to lifeboats. In a message to the owners of the St. Quentin, the captain said a tug from Cobh was expected to tow the vessel to land.

OPERA SINGER SLAPS GIRL

Mary McCormic Unofficially
Adjudget Winner of Bout
in Los Angeles

Associated Press

Los Angeles, Nov. 16.—Mary McCormic, opera singer, squared off in a face-slapping episode with a young woman identified as Grace Williams and a friend of the ex-Princess Midvanti, and came out the winner yesterday evening.

Reporters and editors, of whom there were many to witness the brief engagement in the editorial office of a Los Angeles newspaper, separated the pair. Witnesses agreed Miss McCormic was the victor.

Miss McCormic was divorced from former Prince George Midvanti last Tuesday. Miss Williams attempted to dispose of the "secrets" of a property settlement between the pair to a newspaper. Miss McCormic, her eyes blazing, followed Miss Williams into the newspaper office.

"You will, will you?" she demanded, swinging into action.

Soon after that Michael Luddy, attorney for the singer, learning of the circumstances, came forth with a statement of the details of the property agreement.

Luddy said: "The agreement provided that in consideration of Miss McCormic discharging her action against Midvanti with respect to ownership of one-half of the stock of the Pacific Shore Oil Company, Midvanti would pay to Miss McCormic the sum of $10,000."

Midvanti agreed any property of any nature or description standing in the name of Miss McCormic or in joint name should be the absolute property of Miss McCormic."

AL SMITH MAY BE SENATOR

New York News Says J. J. Raskob May Be U.S. Secretary of Treasury

New York, Nov. 16.—The New York Daily News, in a copyrighted story to-day, said Alfred E. Smith's White House visit with President Roosevelt, according to a person high in Democratic party circles, "concerned the following shifts in United States administration personnel and the following appointments:

1. Resignation of William H. Woodin as Secretary of the Treasury and appointment of John J. Raskob as his successor.

2. Resignation of Jesse Laird Straus as United States Ambassador to France and appointment of United States Senator Royal S. Copeland of New York as his successor.

3. Appointment by Governor Lehman of Al Smith as senator to take Copeland's place.

4. Designation of Postmaster-General James A. Farley as new Democratic candidate for governor of New York state to succeed Governor Lehman, who, The News says, will not seek re-nomination.

Through an arrangement, The News says, it is hoped to circumvent the advantage gained by the Fusionists in the recent election of Fiorello H. La Guardia as Mayor of New York City. The paper says it apparently means the ouster of John J. Curry as leader of Tammany Hall.

CUBA WATCHES TALK IN U.S.

Conference Between President and Ambassador May Result in Recognition

Associated Press

Washington, Nov. 16.—A full report on conditions in Cuba will be submitted to President Roosevelt by Sumner Welles, United States ambassador to the island republic. The meeting may result in United States recognition, so far withheld, of the government set up by President Grau San Martin.

INTEREST IS GREAT

Havana, Nov. 16.—Koen interest was manifested to-day in reported arrangements for United States Ambassador Sumner Welles to confer with President Roosevelt. This conference has become the center of discussion, with speculation rife as to what the outcome would be. The United States ambassador has been attacked from many sides.

Confession Made By Ex-Army Officer

New York, Nov. 16.—A special cable from London to The New York Times to-day said:

"The full confession of Norman Baillie-Stewart, former Seaforth Highlander officer, to which Alfred Duff Cooper, Financial Secretary of the War Office, referred in Parliament Tuesday, is understood to have been dictated and signed by the young former lieutenant."

In making his announcement, Mr. Duff Cooper did not state whether the confession was written or oral.

"The Evening News alleges the confession was dictated in the presence of witnesses soon after Baillie-Stewart was sentenced to five years' penal servitude and cashiered from the army in April for obtaining, collecting and communicating information which might be useful to an enemy for purposes prejudicial to the interests of the state."

WINTER STORM IN GREAT LAKES AREA

Southern Ontario Has Heavy Snow; Navigation Near Its Close For Year

Toronto, Nov. 16.—The western part of southern Ontario dug itself out of the worst snowstorm in two decades. Sailors on the Great Lakes to-day cast anxious eyes to the boys and channels and hoped the ship coating of ice would become no thicker. Within the next two days, the tale will be told. Either the weather will moderate or there will be a sudden closing of navigation for the season 1933.

CANALS LOW

Low water has congested the lower St. Lawrence canals, and marine officials fear the lack of constant movement may permit them to freeze up. Even to-day, ice was forming in the small lakes below Sault Ste. Marie, and threatening to block vessels from reaching that port from the lower lakes.

The land storm had assumed grave proportions to-day. In the western Ontario areas particularly, more than a foot of snow has fallen and railways and highways where being prepared for the first time in nine years at London.

All Ontario Government snow-fighting equipment worked through the night in an effort to keep east and west traffic in operation.

At Sarnia, two Indians from the reserve below that city are still missing. They attempted a crossing of the St. Clair River Sunday night in a rowboat and have not been seen since.

At Tillsonburg, a man dropped dead while trying to assist a stalled motorist. At Pembroke, for the first time in twenty-four years, the ferry which crosses the Ottawa River was frozen in at the dock.

New York, Nov. 16.—The cold wave from the north to-day continued to hold much of the North American continent in its grip, bringing with it a slowly mounting death list, while the storm-tossed North Atlantic imperiled shipping.

The western half held out little hope for relief to-day from the little blast which affected the entire United States east of the Rocky Mountains, according to new lows for this time of the year in various parts of the Midwest, including five below zero at Bemidji, Minn. Parts of the east were also hard hit.

Pennsylvania counted a total of six dead during the last two days, with a new storm sweeping part of the state. Two hunters died in Ohio from over-exposure.

Fears the death list would be increased by loss of two coastguardmen in a picket boat on Lake Superior were dispelled when they were reported safe on Madeline Island.

Mild weather prevailed on the Pacific coast.

TORONTO HEARS OF B.C. MILL GROWTH

Canadian Press

Toronto, Nov. 16.—Four of the largest lumber mills on the Pacific Coast has reopened and are working three eight-hour shifts. Lt.-Col. C. E. Reynolds, president of Ontario Ready-Mix Concrete Limited, formerly engaged in lumbering in British Columbia, told the Progress Club here in a luncheon address to-day.

"Between 1,100 and 1,200 men have been given employment," he said. "In mills which have not been running more than a single eight-hour shift for several years."

The reason, he said, was the increased demand from the United Kingdom.

Vancouver, Nov. 16.—The Co-operative Commonwealth Federation, through authority of its Greater Vancouver Joint District Council, announces it will enter civic politics in Vancouver by contesting those aldermanic seats and park boards seats which will fall vacant for the December 13 election.

"This course is consistent with the federation's desire to better the conditions of Vancouver citizens so far as may be possible within the ambit of municipal legislation," the announcement states.

FARMERS OF U.S. PLAN CHANGES

Associated Press

Boise, Idaho, Nov. 16.—Hundreds of Grangers representing thirty-three states reassembled to-day for the second session of their ten-day annual national convention here with Louis J. Taber of Columbus, Ohio, presiding for the tenth time as national master.

Taber described this year's meeting as "the most important convention the Grange has ever had in view of the acute agricultural situation."

Nearly forty-five tons of powder were exploded in one blast in the depths of the Hidden Creek mine of the Grange Consolidated Mining, Smelting and Power Company Limited at Anson, B.C., August 27 of this year, the paper stated.

One block subject to this operation were under preparation for a year. Drill holes for charges varied in length from fourteen to twenty feet. For stronger, thicker portions of the area, powder drills three by four feet in section were driven for powder charges.

In the two blocks or ore blasted, 2,805 long holes were drilled, in diameter about two inches, and loaded with 40,500 pounds of powder. Forty-two charges in the powder drills were loaded with 47,900 pounds of powder. The blast broke approximately 500,000 tons of ore. It was indicated, an average of 5.5 tons per pound of explosive.

WOMAN ASKS TO BE IDENTIFIED

Associated Press

Minneapolis, Nov. 16.—Twin cities police and University Hospital officials to-day were seeking to learn the identity of a woman who appeared at the hospital yesterday and asked aid in finding out what her name is.

Hospital attendants said she appeared dazed and was under medical care. She was unable to tell anything about herself, they said.

She was described as between twenty-eight and thirty years old, five feet four inches tall, with brown hair and eyes. When she appeared at the hospital she wore a lamb coat, brown dress, brown hat and brown shoes. Her purse, which bore the initials "L. C." contained a year-old return ticket from Winnipeg and other articles.

NANAIMO

Nanaimo, Nov. 16.—A successful girls' conference was held here at the week-end when representatives from Nanaimo and the surrounding districts numbering 140 were present.

Mrs. A. J. Daniel, Victoria, convener of girls' work for Vancouver Island, and Miss Clara Maxwell, New Westminster, represented the chairman of the Provincial Girls' Work Board. At a luncheon Saturday, Miss Mary Hart, president, outlined the work of the conference.

The first Nanaimo Girl Guides, under the direction of Miss Emmeline Dickinson, gave a demonstration of their activities. Supper was served in the Baptist Church in the evening, followed by small group conferences and reports on problems of teen-age girls.

A visitor to the conference was Rev. W. P. Bunt, and greetings were received from A. R. C. Hebert, chairman of the local Religious Education Council and Rev. E. R. McLean, Vancouver head of the Provincial Boys' Work Board.

Miss Fountain gave a closing address in the Baptist Church Sunday afternoon, followed by the forming of a friendship circle, bringing to a close the first Nanaimo and District Girls' Conference.

MAN IS JAILEDM. Hartzell Given Ten
Years By Judge at Sioux City, Iowa

Sioux City, Iowa, Nov. 16.—Oscar M. Hartzell, promoter of a claim to the Sir Francis Drake estate, was found guilty yesterday on twelve federal charges of using the United States mails to defraud in collection of funds for his enterprise.

Federal Judge George C. Scott sentenced him to ten years in the federal penitentiary and fined him $2,000.

Charles Coltz, defense attorney, announced the case would be appealed. Hartzell was in conference regarding the amount of the bond on which Hartzell would be at liberty pending appeal.

The verdict meant the liberation of the jurors after more than three weeks of confinement. The case opened October 24.

In twelve counts Hartzell was charged with sending through the mails letters in promotion of a fraudulent enterprise.

The defense contended he had obtained an assignment of claims of an ancestor to an unrecorded son of Sir Francis Drake who had been fraudulently deprived of his share in the famous privateer's fortune.

MERELY HEARSAY

Prince Albert, Sask., Nov. 16 (Canadian Press).—Rubin Rogers, Mayview farmer, sentenced to a fine of $25 or alternative of a month in jail, for attempting to kill Mrs. Anna Gustafson, his neighbor, has won his appeal in the district court. All evidence in the case was hearsay, said district court Judge A. E. Donk ruled. The conviction was quashed.

In addition to leaving property and securities he can leave them the protection of a corporate executor.

BIG INCREASE IN

MOVE FAILINGProf. Carrothers of U.B.C.
Believes Roosevelt's Boost-
ing Efforts Vain

Vancouver, Nov. 16.—President Roosevelt was waging a fight to boost commodity prices in the United States which he could not win, Professor W. A. Carrothers of the University of British Columbia told delegates to the annual western meeting of the Canadian Institute of Mining and Metallurgy and the Mining Association of British Columbia here yesterday.

If the United States does win its fight which began three weeks ago with the purchase of gold in foreign markets, then it will have to default most of the debts owed it, according to Dr. Carrothers. In his opinion there are long term effects of this policy which make it impossible to carry out.

GOLD STANDARD
Speaking on the merits of the gold standard, Prof. Carrothers said that before the war it had been managed centrally and solely in London and managed very cleverly and efficiently. Post-war economic and financial conditions, however, had spread the management to different centres—London, Paris, New York—with the result the management of this machine had now become more difficult.

George A. Clothier, government engineer for the western district, gave a brief resume of mining operations and conditions in British Columbia.

He estimated that in his district, which includes Bridge River, 1,000 miners were at work, exclusive of British Columbia.

ISLAND POSSIBILITIES
The west coast of Vancouver Island was described as a promising "poor man's country" because of its rich small veins which may be worked on a small scale, and he advised testing to greater depth on Tse-tse Island.

Cheerful comeback of some old workings in the Rossland area was outstanding in the review of the eastern district given by T. O'Grady.

Ottawa Reports Total Trade of Canada in October
Greater Than in October
Last Year

Canadian Press
Ottawa, Nov. 16.—Canada's trade volume continued its upward movement during October, according to figures released yesterday by the National Revenue Department, the total volume of $101,303,183 being $7,522,821 in excess of the corresponding month a year ago. The export balance of approximately $19,000,000 varied very little from that of October, 1932. Eight of the twelve principal items of export showed increases and four dropped.

Most spectacular rise was in exports of unmanufactured nickel, which rose from $800,443 in October a year ago to $2,455,472 last month, an increase of 406 per cent.

Export of planks and boards was up 208 per cent. An increase of 100 per cent in export of partially manufactured copper, 230 per cent in meat exports and 143 per cent in fish exports featured the upward surge. Wheat flour and woodpulp exports also showed marked increases.

Export of wheat declined from $21,472,209 to $15,841,182.

For the seven months of the current fiscal year Canada's trade totaled $566,898,637, an increase of $17,461,978 over the corresponding seven months of 1932. Exports constituted $335,622,556 and imports $231,276,079, or an export balance of $84,946,479.

EXCISE UP; CUSTOMS DOWN
Ottawa, Nov. 16.—October revenue of the Dominion Government from customs and excise was $2,569,479 in excess of October, 1932, according to excess of October, 1932, although the customs duty figures themselves showed a decrease, according to a report issued yesterday by the Department of National Revenue.

Last month was $19,503,483 and in October the year before $16,934,004. The decline in revenues continued through the first few months of the present fiscal year. However, September made a substantial increase and now the October report shows a gain over the year before. For the seven months of the present fiscal year, April 1 to October 31, the revenue was $14,190,194, or $1,871,903 below the corresponding period in 1932.

In October last, customs duties were $380,092 below 1932, but the excise taxes were $2,802,609 ahead, and increases were registered in excise duties and sundry collections.

Receipts for last month with October, 1932, in brackets, follow: Customs duties, $37,769,800 ($35,128,892); excise taxes, $10,520,871 ($7,718,362); excise duties, $3,138,776 ($3,016,925); sundries, $75,033 ($69,923).

The income tax collections for the seven months of the fiscal year were $48,476,303, a decrease of $4,396,209 from the corresponding period last year.

W. S. Fitzpatrick Tells U.S.
Senate Stock Committee of
Share in Pool

By Nathan Robertson, Associated Press
Staff Writer

Washington, Nov. 16.—William S. Fitzpatrick, former president of the Prairie Oil Company, testified before the United States Senate investigators yesterday he had received $300,000 out of $12,000,000 profits in a Sinclair Consolidated Corporation oil pool through an arrangement with the Rockefellers.

FOR LONG SERVICE
Explaining the fund which Ferdinand Pecora, banking committee counsel, had termed a "Santa Claus gift," the old man said it had been arranged by the Rockefellers with Blair and Company of New York to compensate him for his long service.

Fitzpatrick said half of the Rockefeller holdings were sold to Blair and Company early in 1928 and he was concerned about his position as a result of the change of ownership.

As a result, Fitzpatrick said, he conferred with the Rockefeller office and was told he would be given some of the profits from the sale of the stock.

At that time, Fitzpatrick continued, there was no consideration of a merger with the Sinclair Oil Company.

VANCOUVER DEATH
Vancouver, Nov. 16 (Canadian Press).—John James Southcott, eighty-three, a resident of Vancouver for forty-five years, died yesterday at his home here following a brief illness. He is survived by three daughters, one son, nine grandchildren—and six great-grandchildren, all in Vancouver.

RUSSIAN-U.S. DISCUSSION AT WASHINGTON

Maxim Litvinoff, Soviet envoy, left, was talking with Cordell Hull, United States Secretary of State, when the above picture was taken. Since then M. The Russian spokesman is still in Washington and the discussions are still in progress.

Need Not Worry Over Wor-

Associated Press
Moscow, Nov. 16.—Recognition of Russia by the United States need not be impeded by uncertainty over the religious freedom of United States citizens in this country, it was said in unofficial quarters here to-day.

Neither Americans nor other foreigners meet any obstacles to church worship, Soviet citizens said, adding that militant suppression of all religion had long since been abandoned.

Many churches still function actively, especially in the large centres, and will undoubtedly continue to do so as long as there is a demand for them.

The older generation contributes hundreds of thousands of devout churchgoers, who worship without molestation, it is stated.

THINK MOON MAY CONTAIN RADIUM

Associated Press
New York, Nov. 16.—A new theory that the moon is charged with radium was announced yesterday evening by Dr. Harlan T. Stetson, astronomer of Ohio Wesleyan University, at an amateur astronomers' meeting here.

Traveling with the speed of light, these invisible lunar rays seem to penetrate deeply into the earth's atmosphere, sufficiently to disturb radio reception in some sets.

Evidence for their existence is found in thousands of radio tests made recently between Chicago and Delaware, Ohio, and in some volcanic deposits just uncovered at Naples, Italy.

Canadian Press
San Francisco, Nov. 16.—With an interlocutory decree of divorce in her possession, Mrs. Fernando Delort Engshel was free to-day to enjoy her fill of fresh air though an open window unobscured by a husband who, she said, disliked the breeze.

"I like fresh air," she told Superior Judge Thomas Graham. "I opened the window. My husband got out of bed and closed it. I opened it again. He got up and nailed it down."

Swastika Parties In Roumania Broken Up

Associated Press
Bucharest, Nov. 16.—The new Roumanian government, after Premier Ion G. Duca, opened a campaign yesterday evening to combat a rising wave of anti-Semitism in Roumania.

The cabinet voted to dissolve two Roumanian swastika parties—Coronel Cordescu's Iron Guard and Professor Alex Cuza's Anti-Semitic National Christian Party.

The growing strength of these organizations, which at present have only seventeen seats in the Chamber of Deputies, caused anxiety, particularly in view of recent Nazi victories in the Transylvania district.

Meanwhile, former Premier Valda-Voevod at an emotional farewell session of the National Peasant Party deputies resigned the party presidency after taking on himself all blame for the "failure of the cabinet."

Amid the tears of many deputies, Valda-Voevod announced he was retiring altogether from politics.

Reflation Is U.S.
Farmers' Demand

Boise, Idaho, Nov. 16.—Urging immediate reflation of currency and credit, Louis J. Taber, national master of the Grange, yesterday declared agriculture had failed to receive the full benefit of the United States recovery programme. He pleaded for application of the tariff principle to protect the home market for agriculture.

"No sensible man," he said in an address before the national convention of the Grange, "wants uncontrolled inflation. Between the deflationist on one hand and the unlimited inflationist on the other, there is the sensible common ground of controlled reflation and managed currency in accordance with justice and the times."

President Roosevelt's gold policy he described as "a step in the right direction," but asserted that "it does not reach the heart of the problem."

Waiters' Tips Not Wages, States NRA

New York, Nov. 16.—Tips received by waiters are not to be construed as wages, the NRA has ruled. The ruling, made by the New York City compliance board, reversed an earlier one after protests had been sent to Washington by representatives of the 150,000 waiters employed in New York City's 28,000 hotels and restaurants.

CHANGES IN
RUSSIA SEENTrend Is Modified Capitalism,
Cromie Tells Hollywood,
Cal., Audience

Associated Press
Hollywood, Calif., Nov. 16.—Russia is beginning to veer from radical Bolshevism toward a state of modified capitalism, Robert Cromie, publisher of the Vancouver, B.C. Sun, told 150 members of the Writers' Club at a banquet in his honor here yesterday evening.

Speaking before such personages as Will Rogers, Harry Chandler, George Young, Dr. F. F. Barham, Rupert Hughes, Lee Phillips and others, the publisher told of his recent trip of two months through Europe and observed that with the present trend in the United States, this country and Russia "will meet on common ground within twenty-five years."

Mr. Cromie arrived here a week ago and the banquet was arranged that members of the club might obtain first hand information on conditions in Europe, particularly in Russia, because of the diplomatic conversations in progress in Washington involving this country and the Soviet Union. Among the sponsors of the banquet was Senator William Gibbs McAdoo.

WAGE LEVELS
As proof of Russia's trend toward capitalism, the speaker cited a variation in wages, ranging from eighty to 800 rubles a month, in the opening of savings banks, which pay 7 per cent interest, and in the field of sports. "I saw 50,000 Russians at one football game and 55,000 at a horse race," he remarked.

Russia, he said, "has arrived, in that it knows what it wants to do. It is no paradise yet, but at the same time it is no chamber of horrors and any attempt to compare it with America would be as unfair as trying to compare it with China of India."

Favoring commercial relations with Russia, Mr. Cromie said that "it is the best credit bet in the world to-day—much better than many capitalistic nations. The country is now returning to more conservative governmental measures and will continue this trend."

German-Polish Discussions
Governments Agree on Immediate Negotiations on All Differences

Associated Press
Berlin, Nov. 16.—Chancellor Hitler and the new Polish Minister, Joseph Lipke, agreed in a conference yesterday both governments should take up immediately direct negotiations on all questions affecting mutual relations.

An official communiqué said also Germany and Poland would refrain from resorting to force so the peace of Europe may be maintained.

IMPORTANT MOVE
Warsaw, Nov. 16.—The official Gazeta Polska commented yesterday evening on a communiqué issued jointly by Wolff's Agency and the Polish Telegraphic Agency saying German and Polish representatives had agreed on direct negotiations.

"The non-aggression declaration of the two countries," the newspaper said, "is one of the most important events of the last fifteen years, as Polish and German relations were generally regarded as the tinder box of Europe."

The declaration complements the Treaty of Locarno, which guaranteed peace only to Western Europe."

GREAT CANADIAN GROWTH FORESEEN

London, Nov. 16.—"Nothing impressed Sir Charles Addis and myself more than the high character, sense of responsibility and integrity of the bankers of Canada," declared Baron Macmillan, chairman of the Royal Commission, which recently investigated the Canadian banking system, when he spoke yesterday at a luncheon of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce in London. Sir Charles was his English colleague on the commission.

Lord Macmillan was one of the principal guests at the luncheon, others of the distinguished gathering including Sir Hon. J. H. Thomas, Secretary for the Dominions; Price Arthur of Connaught; Hon. G. Howard, Ferguson Canadian High Commissioner to Great Britain, and the Lord Mayor of London.

Referring to the cardinal recommendation of the bank commission's report, urging establishment of a central bank, Lord Macmillan said whether it would be acted on remained to be seen. It was not a political question, but one of purely economic and business policy, he added.

"I am firmly convinced Canada is on the threshold of a great development," he added. "The door will open before long and Canada will enter a great inheritance."

Mr. Thomas commented it was absurd to assume the Continent of America could for one moment isolate itself from the events and happenings in Europe. It was equally absurd to suppose those on this side could be blind to events in America.

Mr. Ferguson declared the results of the Ottawa pact had so far been most encouraging. "I am constantly trying to patch up difficulties," he admitted.

FEED INDUSTRY IMPERILED

A delegation representing the stock and poultry feed industry has been at Ottawa telling the government that the scarcity of corn is crippling its business, and that it objects to the existing tariff rates under the Canada-South Africa trade agreement entered into at the Ottawa conference last year. The agreement provides that South African corn shall come in free of duty, that the intermediate tariff shall be twenty cents a bushel, and the general tariff twenty-five cents a bushel.

The delegation informed Hon. E. N. Rhodes, who spoke for the government, that no South African corn was being received in Canada and in consequence it desired permission to import from the United States or the Argentine at a low tariff rate in order to preserve this important industry. Mr. Rhodes referred to the treaty between the two Dominions and told the delegation that it bound the Canadian government to respect the present rates for a period of five years; no move could be made to alter the agreement in the respect suggested, unless it was initiated in South Africa.

Mr. Rhodes' reply was poor comfort for the representatives of the feed industry; but it was typical of the manner in which the government has handled its tariff policy in the last three years. It always has found a way to increase customs duties—several times it has had to rescind the increase—and to try to justify its action. It now has a chance to show its much-vaunted solicitude for Canadian industry. The feed business obviously is in a bad way and requires prompt action. Instead of waiting for South Africa to meet the situation by permitting that provision in the treaty involving corn to be over-ridden until it is able again to meet the Canadian demand, surely it is the duty of the government at Ottawa to explain the circumstances to the government of South Africa where statesmanship, we assume, would be above holding a sister Dominion to the letter of an undertaking in which a temporary weakness had been revealed.

Sound business principles obviously require the Ottawa government to take up the matter with South Africa without delay, and if it shall get the consent of the latter to lower the duty on foreign corn for the time being, the existing duty on United States corn should be removed. The United States for many years was our best customer; it still is second only to Great Britain. It will be remembered, incidentally, that one of Mr. Mackenzie-King's objections to the Ottawa conference treaties was the fixed period of operation.

Hard-and-fast trade treaties may be all right where the exchange of commodities may be carried on without interruption and at a profit to the contracting parties. But it always is dangerous to try to run counter to inexorable economic laws.

STILL TRYING

Rt. Hon. Arthur Henderson's threat to resign from the chairmanship of the Disarmament Conference unless practical activity was forthcoming has been followed by the dispatch by the British government of Sir John Simon to Geneva. This is the first move to get Germany back into the deliberations, and as a preliminary Sir John will consult Mr. Hugh R. Wilson, Minister to Geneva and acting head of the United States delegation to the conference, in the hope that it will be possible to give the parley a fresh start on the basis of an actual draft of a disarmament convention.

Germany has said that it requires no more than a telephone message to Berlin to insure Germany's re-entry into the Disarmament Conference. But this apparently clear statement is blurred with a very large "but." Germany will take part in the deliberations again only if she shall be assured that she will not be discriminated against in any respect. Her demand is that the other powers shall reduce their fighting equipment to the level of her own and that she shall be accepted by them on a basis of equality. There is no indication that she has changed her attitude in the least. Hitler naturally feels that his back is much stiffer as a result of the elections of last Sunday.

How France feels about the matter is summed up in a declaration which Premier Sarraut made in the Chamber of Deputies yesterday and on which he won a vote of confidence by 395 to 194. Here are the salient points of it:

1. France will not reduce her armaments by a man or a gun until she has the strictest guarantee of security.
2. Despite German objections, France will continue to insist on a system of permanent arms control.
3. France will not engage in direct negotiations with Germany to obtain her re-entrance to the League of Nations and Disarmament Conference, but will insist on staunchest adherence to the framework of the League.
4. France is prepared to meet with arms any attempt to enforce a foreign will upon her.

M. Sarraut followed this statement up, however, with an expression of hope that Germany would return to the League of Nations and also sign a disarmament treaty. "We are ready to say to Germany you claim a desire for peace," he continued, "so does France. We have no wish to humiliate you or to threaten you. We are not indifferent to the sufferings of the German people—though Germany's trade balance is more favorable than is ours. But France demands of you a sincerity equal to hers."

It is to be hoped that Sir John Simon, in collaboration with the United States minister, will be able to induce Germany to return to the Disarmament Conference. The whole atmosphere in Europe is more explosive than it has been at any time since the end of the war. And it should be noted, incidentally, that the armaments business is paying just as well as ever, despite the world depression, for the annual statement of Schneider and Company shows a profit for the year ending last April of 25,390,000 francs, permitting a dividend of 100 francs a share.

Times like these, of course, bring joy to the hearts of the munitions makers. To quote the foreman in one of the British armament plants, as related by Beverley Nichols in his book, "Cry Havoc," "We don't care who is having a crack at whom, so long as we get the order."

TOOLS, CAPITAL AND FOOD

The crisis in the United States, its relation to capital and labor and to the general public, has been a platform subject of Mr. Owen D. Young, author of the famous Young Plan for reparations, on several occasions recently. He contends that profits and wages must be in balance. "I hear frequently," he said, "sometimes in high places, such slogans as 'Production for service instead of Profit'—as if they were inconsistent with each other. They are not; they are mutually interdependent. One cannot be had without the other, and by and large each is a fair measure of the other. To get production, we must have both tools and labor. Tools are only another name for labor."

Mr. Young argues further that under any system there must be earnings enough to supply the tools and keep them fit, just as there should be earnings enough to pay not only a living wage but a cultural wage. Any failure to do either in the long run means impaired service. Capital which over-reaches for profits, labor which over-reaches for wages, or a public which over-reaches for bargains, Mr. Young emphasizes, will all destroy each other.

The stark fact of the "crisis" as the average man looks upon it is that millions of people throughout the world are starving in a world of plenty. The unemployed man with or without a family has neither the inclination nor the patience to weigh up fine economic theories. He wants to know what is wrong with the system which obliges him to go hungry when there is an enormous surplus of food, when agreements are being entered into to curtail the future production of food and other staple commodities so that the existing surplus will not be added to. He wants somebody to solve the distribution problem.

RECREATIONAL NEEDS

According to the Canada Year Book there are seven cities in the Dominion with populations of over 100,000. A recent bulletin issued by the Canadian Council on Child and Family Welfare—compiled by the division which is considering the problem of the idle time of compulsorily idle Canadian and what shall be done about it—takes note of this fact and discusses recreational needs for these larger cities. The seven communities contained at the time of the 1931 census slightly less than twenty-two and a half per cent of Canada's total population, and must be considered of great importance in setting and maintaining a recreational and recreational-occupational standard for the Dominion. But there are also in the Dominion sixty-three cities with populations between 100,000 and 10,000, classified as follows:

Population of 50,000 to 100,000—7 cities
" of 25,000 to 50,000—10 "
" of 15,000 to 25,000—23 "
" of 10,000 to 15,000—23 "

These represent almost nineteen per cent of our population, and it may be asserted with confidence that each of them in its way is quite as important from the standpoint of community life as are the individual cities of larger population.

It would be useless to claim anything like uniformity between those cities, or to suggest that any hard and fast programme would be applicable to the recreational needs of each, the bulletin goes on. They are grouped together largely for the sake of convenience, and because in spite of their difference in location, in population, and in climatic conditions, the same fundamental need for recreational and recreational-occupational activities for their citizens exists in every one of them.

The bulletin points out that the recreational problem for Canada's smaller cities differs only in degree but not in kind from that of the larger cities. Organizing the work is actually simpler in the smaller communities, for the clear reason that the citizens live closer together in every sense. This, however, does not lessen the need for enthusiasm in leadership; rather it increases the need, especially when any project new to the community is brought forward. If leadership centres in a single individual, he or she—and the part taken by women in this movement is especially commendable—will require patience as well as enthusiasm till a small group of supporters has been gathered.

WHAT OTHER PAPERS SAY

TRADITIONAL MEMORY

The Fredrickson Mail

Fairy tales about gnomes, dwarfs and pigmies may be vague traditions about little people that actually lived 10,000 years ago.

This is the inference of reports from South Africa of a new discovery in ancient civilization. D. S. Van der Merwe, an amateur archaeologist, found in the northern Transvaal the remains of ancient buildings, stairways, walks, dams and other structures, many of them plainly too small to have been used by people of the present size.

THE REPROACH

The Montreal Star

We cannot hold up our heads in pride so long as our penitentiaries are filled with youths who ought to be earning honest livings and taking their place as respected members of society. Making all due allowance for the natural criminal—if such there be—the existing conditions, as revealed by Judge Wilson, constitute an ever-present reminder that something is radically wrong in our existing social system; and that something calls for the most careful and conscientious study. This is a duty the older generation owes to the youth of to-day, and until it is discharged we shall be in default to future generations.

A THOUGHT

The living, the living shall praise thee as I do this day: the father to the children shall make known thy truth.—Isaiah xxxviii 19.

Loose Ends

But you are wrong, my dear sir—It may not matter but we can't admit that, you know—Besides, look at the busy letter writers who have been saving civilization so industriously—and attacking me from the High North—arguing eavesdropping on Victoria.

By H. H. W.

LITTLE WORLD

A FELLOW WRITER who solemnly demands why people should take the new Provincial Government, the election and B.C. politics generally with such gravity. Don't we know, he says, that none of these things can have much effect on our future, that we are in the grip of world forces completely out of a provincial government's control, that provincial politics don't really amount to much in the scale of history?

There, my dear friend, is where you are entirely wrong and where the politicians are entirely right. They are right, I mean, to get all excited and harried about provincial politics. They are right to take provincial politics with profound gravity, as if the fate of civilization hung on them. That is the only way for a man to live, to imagine that what he is doing amounts to something. If he is in provincial politics, he must imagine that they are terribly important. Otherwise he had better get out of them.

Of course, they don't really amount to much. But then, neither do federal politics. Neither do international politics and the League of Nations and all the chancelleries of the world. None of them amounts to much. Neither does the entire earth—a rather interior cut-off fragment from a fifth-rate sun and dying daily until the ultimate extinction of all life here can be measured within a million years or so.

Any man who can stand the night air for five minutes and can look up at the stars knows that nothing here amounts to much and will soon be all over. But you can't live on that basis, unless you are a philosopher, and if you are a philosopher you are no use in politics. Realizing that nothing mattered, you would sit back and do nothing, and would be a dismal failure as a politician.

You must keep up your illusions. You must imagine, if you are a provincial politician, that great things hang on the fate of provincial governments. You must persuade yourself, until you really believe it, that the Legislature means something. You must build up a little world to live in, whether it be a Provincial Government, a Sanial Council, a job of work, or merely a garden or a column-like this in the newspapers. You have got to imagine that you amount to something or you will have to become a philosopher or so crazy. Most likely you will go crazy.

A merciful Providence has prevented either emergency by making men capable of a tremendous self-esteem, which hides the universe from them like a ceiling, enables statesmen and ditch-diggers to imagine that what they are doing is worth doing. If they ever find out the truth, if they ever suspect that statescraft, that governments and ditches, really don't mean anything in the long run, they will be lost. I judge by current events in this province that we are safe for a while.

STRANGE RACE

LETTERS TO the newspapers, which had taxed the endurance of editors during the election campaign and completely overtaxed the capacity of readers, suddenly dropped off the day after the poll, and the public must have breathed a deep sigh of relief. It is a curious thing; this habit of writing to the editor whenever you have an idea. Fortunately few have, or there would be nothing but letters in this paper.

A century ago when a man had an idea bursting in his breast, he would go out and make a speech to a mob in the market place, or start a revolution or write a sonnet. To-day, when a man can contain himself no longer, when there is something big and great clamoring in him for expression, when he knows that he has a message for humanity, he rushes to a desk and writes to a newspaper, and then forgets all about it.

Since the depression started the volume of traffic has been almost more than the newspapers could endure, but they have done their best. Apparently more people are thinking, more people are bursting with messages for humanity than at any period in the world's history. Probably this great tide of thought reached its high water mark during the election and has dropped a little, but it will return, oh, don't despair, it will well up again.

But what I can't understand is where the letter writers go in between times. Where do they hibernate? What do they do with their time? How do they manage to endure the ordinary dull round of life after the brief glory of seeing their message in print? Where do they sit and ponder the next outbreak? And do they live, like ordinary men, on food and drink, or, as their letters seem to indicate, do they exist on pure reason and the winds of argument and the rich wines of a divine discontent?

I suppose we shall never know. I suppose they will always remain just names to us, just disembodied ideas and protests emerging into consciousness at election times and then disappearing again into the Great Silence. It is a solemn thought that even now at this moment some Unknown Writer, some Pro Bono Publico, some Tax Payer or Interested, is sitting down somewhere in the shadows and writing to the editor.

BETWEEN OURSELVES

ALL THIS, of course, is not what I started out to say. I merely wanted to refer to a cruel letter to the editor from the High North, where an indignant native has written to call me fifty-seven varieties of liar. He says I recently libelled the North, and especially the thriving city of McBride. Unfortunately everything I said was true, but really, you know, it was between ourselves, as Victorians, I hadn't intended people up there to get hold of it. I mean, surely we understand one another by this time and realize that things said among us as Victorians are not supposed to be told like tales out of school. If we can't sit in Victoria and pity everyone everywhere else and congratulate ourselves that we are here with our fog and our rain and our little private election, instead of being frozen up in the North, well, then, what is the use of being in Victoria at all?

It is a little embarrassing to realize that outsiders may be eavesdropping like that. One would hate to think that the outside world took seriously what we say among ourselves about Victoria, just in fun. Why, they may actually believe it. They may get the idea from such frivolous records as this column that we really have an accent of our own, that we play golf and take life easily. They may even imagine that we believe in the sea serpent. Things have come to a pretty pass when we can't have a little joke in the family without these outsiders putting their alien noses into Victoria.

FORTITUDE

IT IS REMARKABLE with what complacency we regard the prospect of the coming winter in Russia. No one worries about it here. Everyone discusses the expected slaughter of thousands, perhaps millions of human beings, with complete composure, with much less emotion than we should regard the death of five of our fellow Victorians in a drowning accident. If it does come to war in the Far East we shall continue to accept it with fortitude. It is almost mean large purchases of our goods we may even in our hearts feel that it is providential and many a pious man will tell himself that it is Nature's way of ending our depression.

I have no doubt we shall sell them all materials they want to manufacture shells which will blow men to pieces. We shall have no misgivings about it. We shall say it is none of our business, and if we didn't sell them the materials of war someone else would—a classic excuse which any burglar might well plead in the police court. If he didn't rob the bank it stands to reason that sooner or later someone else would.

But there is a strange justice about these things. We may escape the war in the Far East, we may make a lot of money out of it, but in the end it won't do us any good. We shall build up production to meet this demand, and when it stops from the exhaustion of the combatants we shall have the implements of production, the machines and the fields, with no place to sell their output, precisely what happened to us after we had over-built our equipment to meet the needs of the last war. We shall have another depression worse than this. And having helped to keep modern warfare alive in the world, ultimately we shall feel it at close quarters. Having supplied the ammunition for the guns over there, some day we shall find ourselves within range.

The opening session of the fourteenth annual meeting of the Local Council of Women of Victoria and Vancouver Island was held to-day, commencing at 10 o'clock with the president, Mrs. Day, in the chair.

A meeting of local musicians was held on Saturday evening in the Y.M.C.A. rooms for the purpose of forming an orchestra for service in connection with the association. Will G. Fowright was chosen leader. Members will hold their first practice on Saturday.

The steamer Amur carried 10,000 feet of spruce to Vancouver for shipment to the Great Britain by the Blue Funnel line.

Christmas Eve will be a big night of entertainment at the Empress Hotel when all the employees of the house will hold a grand carol service, including a Christmas tree, minstrel troupe entertainment and a ball.

A long and faithful search for possible survivors of several ships which have been lost off Cape Horn during the last year has resulted fruitlessly. A dispatch from Liverpool states that the steamer sent out to look for traces of missing ships has returned without result.

Charlottetown, Nov. 16.—Winnipeg all-stars won the first victory of their maritime tour here yesterday evening by defeating Charlottetown Abegweit 2 to 1.

The visitors did not fare as well against other teams of the Maritime Hockey League. They were held to a 2 to 2 draw by Moncton Hawks, Canadian champions, and were defeated 1 to 0 by Halifax Wolverines.

Local Branch of Canadian Authors' Association Offers Prizes For Short Stories

At the suggestion of a member of the Victoria branch of the Canadian Authors' Association the forthcoming book week will be used as the occasion of a contest intended to encourage young people to write short stories, and by so doing to develop the teaching they received at school. Prizes of $10, $5 and $3 are offered by members of the association.

M. Eugenie Perry and Mrs. Angus and Donald A. Fraser drew up the rules as follows:

1. Competition to be open to young people from sixteen to twenty-one, inclusive, who have been resident on Vancouver Island since leaving school, and who have had at least three years schooling on the island. Young people who are in any way connected with members of the local branch of the Canadian Authors' Association, the staff of The Daily Times and The Colonist are not eligible.
2. Story not to exceed 1,400 words, and only one to be submitted.
3. British Columbian setting, essential.
4. Story to be clearly written or double-spaced typing on one side of the paper only, with left-hand margin one and a half inches wide. Pen-name to be written in upper left-hand corner and no other name to appear on sheet.
5. A sealed envelope with pen-name and name of the story on the outside must accompany the story. Said envelope must contain real name of competitor, address and signature of parent or guardian, certifying the age of competitor and that story is the unaided effort of the contestant. Return postage must be included if return of the manuscript is desired.
6. Story judged to be the best will receive a first prize of $10, will be printed in The Victoria Colonist, and becomes the property of the Victoria branch, C.A.A. The story getting second place receives the second prize of $5, will be printed in The Western Recorder, and becomes the property of the local branch. The third best story receives a third prize of $3 and becomes the property of the local branch.
7. Stories to be sent to Marion I. Angus, 1602 Erie Street, Victoria, B.C., and postmarked not later than November 30, 1933. If possible, prizes to be awarded at the December meeting of branch.
8. The decision of the judges must be accepted by all as final.

For additional information, apply to Mrs. Angus, secretary.

The monthly meeting of the South Saanich Farmers' Institute will be held in the Temperance Hall this evening, J. B. Terry of the department of agriculture will give an address on poultry.

The Keating Badminton Club will hold a dance in the Temperance Hall Friday evening. Len Acres' orchestra will be in attendance and there will be a number of tombolas.

Winners of five hundred were: Ladies' first, Mrs. R. E. Nimmo; second, Mrs. T. Peden; gentlemen's first, T. B. Oxley; second, W. W. Mitchell.

The bridge winners were as follows: Ladies' first, Mrs. H. North Jr.; second, Mrs. Oxley; gentlemen's first, Mrs. Sherrett (substitute); second, J. Sutherland.

The cedar chest, filled with linen and a wool comforter, was drawn for the winner being W. Robertson, East Saanich Road. Refreshments were served at the close of the game by members of the institute.

Young People's Church Societies

METROPOLITAN Y.P.S. "Armistice by Television" was the unusual topic of the regular Monday evening programme of the Metropolitan Young People's Society. Group meetings were followed by the singing of Christmas hymns.

"The Prince of Peace" was the theme for the worship service led by Elbert Wood. "O Canada" was followed by "The Soldier's Prayer," given by James Taylor; the hymn "God Bless Our Native Land," reading: "What the Prince of Peace Might Say," by Catherine Craig, and then two minutes of silence. Doris Smith gave a "Prayer for Peace," which was followed by the singing of "O God the All-Mighty" and the Benediction, "May the peace of God rest with you all."

The first picture on the television screen was the "Canteen Arm" of a "cane" solo "Reveille," by J. Mossop; "The Rose of No Man's Land," a Red Cross nurse, Hazel McPhee; solo, Molly Laitly; next, a skit, "The Recruiting Officer," by Don McCain and Bert Simpson; "Pack Up Your Troubles in Your Old Kit Bag," James Taylor; solo, John Bray.

NO MORE COUGHING, SLEEPLESS NIGHTS FOR MR. HARRY ALLAN

BUCKLEY'S MIXTURE certainly makes short work of these stubborn old hang-on coughs and colds, that no other cough remedy will budge, according to Mr. H. A. Allan, of Sarnia, Ontario.

Mr. Allan says: "For years I suffered every Fall and Winter with a terrible cough and chest cold. I have had many sleepless nights and coughed until tears ran, and my stomach ached. I tried many different cough mixtures, but got very little relief. I started again with the same old cough about October first—but after a few doses of BUCKLEY'S MIXTURE my cough was gone."

Millions of your fellow Canadians will say, "Sure, that's right. It did the same for me." If you have a cough, cold, flu or bronchitis, just try BUCKLEY'S MIXTURE. It acts like a flash—a single sip proves it. Play safe. Refuse substitutes. Buckley's is sold everywhere.

"The Trumpeter," James Taylor; solo, John Bray. A review of Beverly Nichols' latest book, "Cry Havoc" was dramatically presented by Rev. J. H. A. Warr. Two more pictures followed. "Goodbye," presented by Bert Simpson and Florence Gillis; "Home Again," by Jeanette Young, Marian Evans, Bert Simpson and Don McCain. The "Last Post" was sounded by J. Mossop.

The treasurer reported very successful financial returns from the Miniature World's Fair. Next week a humorous debate will be held.

KNOX Y.P.S. The Knox Presbyterian Young People's Society met on Monday evening, the president, Miss Louise Patterson, in the chair. Miss Agnes Roe was in charge of the devotional period.

Reginald Scoble gave a very interesting illustrated talk on "From Plunders to the Christian Pulpit," the pictures of France and the numerous souvenirs shown made all present realize more fully the horrors of war. Mr. Scoble also told many of his own personal experiences.

Brahms-Elgar Recital Is

Delightfully Illustrated By Local Artists

An appreciative audience followed with deep interest the satisfying two-composer programme presented by the Victoria Musical Art Society at its November recital yesterday afternoon at the Shrine Hall. Woven around the works of Sir Edward Elgar and Johannes Brahms, the programme happily allied the British and German subjects into one of the most interesting and attractive concerts of the season.

The subject of the recital was introduced by Mrs. Archie Wills in a most comprehensive and thoughtful paper, which dealt with his life and work. Called by an eminent critic "the musician of the tender heart," Brahms was a great and noble man of great and noble achievements, who "lives in our hearts to-day because he appeals to the finer feelings."

Born in Hamburg in 1833, Brahms was the last of the classical school, a worthy successor to Mendelssohn. Mrs. Wills recalled. At the early age of twelve he was teaching the piano, and had commenced writing music even earlier than that. She touched upon the great influence made upon Brahms by his first teachers, Eduard Marxsen and the great violinist, Joachim, who described his writing as "clear as a diamond, soft as snow." Last and Robert and Clara Schumann also exercised a great influence upon the young composer, encouraging him in every way.

RUTHLESS SELF-CRITIC
In forty-four years Brahms, whoALL-BRAN RELIEVED
HIS CONSTIPATIONDelicious Cereal Brought New Health to Mr. Bartholomew

We quote from his voluntary letter: "I had considerable trouble with my stomach. Digestion was out of the question. I got medicine which gave me only temporary relief."

"Then I thought of taking ALL-BRAN. I started eating a cereal dishful two or three times a day."

"It has been over a year now since I ate that first dish of bran, but from that day to this I have had the pleasure of enjoying the proper functioning of the digestive organs. Thanks to ALL-BRAN. I still eat it regularly and like it better all the time."—Lester Bartholomew. (Address furnished upon request.)

Constipation is usually due to lack of "bulk" to exercise the intestines, and vitamin B to promote elimination. ALL-BRAN supplies both, as well as iron for the blood.

The "bulk" in ALL-BRAN is much like that of leafy vegetables. Certainly this food is more natural than taking harmful patent medicines. Two table-spoonfuls daily will overcome most types of constipation. With each meal in chronic cases. If not relieved this way, see your doctor.

Man With a Thousand Masks

By Augustus Muir

Alan decided to beat an immediate retreat. But second thoughts suggested that it was wildly unlikely that the newcomer would have any reason to enter this uninvited closet. This gave him a feeling of security, and he ventured to take another survey of the room.

Tom Young himself was crossing to the big roll-top desk which stood between the two large, curtained windows on the right. Alan watched the man with considerable curiosity. He was an unknown specimen—a dark, dark lounge suit. He turned for a moment, his hands behind him on the back of a chair, and he seemed to be deep in thought.

But for that touch of the Asiatic about his eyes and cheekbones and lips, Alan would have denied that this man had any tincture of Eastern blood in his veins. Yet the very name "Tom Young," though English, sounded like a corruption of Chinese words. With a slow movement Mr. Young turned and seated himself at the roll-top desk. The lid slipped noiselessly upwards, and, picking up a quill pen, he began to write. But a few minutes later he was interrupted.

There was a knock on the door. Shuffling across the room came the sullen-faced man who had conducted Alan upstairs the previous night, whether he helped in the bar or was a personal servant of Mr. Young. He was an unknown specimen—a dark, dark lounge suit. He turned for a moment, his hands behind him on the back of a chair, and he seemed to be deep in thought.

The other shuffled out, and presently returned with a stranger. "Mr. Carlo Lewin," he announced, closing the door behind a short man dressed in carefully-brushed black clothes. He had iron-grey hair, small pale eyes that moved uneasily behind highly-polished pince-nez, and restless white fingers.

To Alan there was something vaguely familiar about the shape of that head and the stoop of the black-coated back. Could this have been one of the people he had seen in the upper room on the previous night? But there was no time to decide this point. For the two men began to speak.

Alan could hear almost everything they said. And presently as he listened his heart began to pound and his breath came faster, for the words which were being uttered in that quiet old room with its faded splendor were directly concerned with the mystery and the man that had baffled the keenest brains in Scotland Yard during so many watchful days and sleepless nights.

CHAPTER XXV

With alacrity Tom Young had arisen from his chair, and he went forward with a polite smile to meet Mr. Carlo Lewin.

"Will my friend be seated?" He bowed in the direction of an armchair behind the fire. "It is an unexpected honor, this visit to my humble house. If my friend had warned me of his coming, I would have received him with greater ceremony."

"Cut out the ceremony, Tom," replied the solicitor, with a faint sneer in the pale eyes behind his polished pince-nez. "We come on business."

Young rubbed his yellow hands slowly together. "Business? I am always at your service, Mr. Lewin. And the business—it concerns ourselves alone."

Carlo Lewin seated himself carefully in a chair, then glanced up at the man on the hearthrug. "That's for you to say," he helped himself to a cigarette from the box at his side and lit it.

"Does it never strike you that you're in a devilish difficult position, Tom?" Tom Young looked puzzled.

"If my friend will explain his meaning," Young said, "I'm driving at it, all right," said Lewin shrewdly. "I mean, a difficult position with Lord John."

Young spread out his hands. "My honorable friends make use of my humble house to convey messages to those who help him," he replied slowly, "but my reward is adequate. Our honorable friend is generous in return for services rendered."

Lewin nodded. "I am not quibbling about that. He can afford to be generous with you. Then the difficulty of my position that you mention."

Carlo Lewin did not answer the question directly. "I've been thinking over our meeting upstairs last night. Strange business, eh?"

Tom Young inclined his head. "Very strange, Mr. Lewin. Very distressing."

"I don't suggest, I tell you flatly, Tom, I believe you know who stole those documents."

Mr. Young stood rigid, his long, narrow eyes fixed on the solicitor's face. "That's why I'm here to-night," went on Lewin challengingly. "You're playing your own game, Tom. But I'm taking a hand in it now. We're going to talk this over, you and I."

Young was finding it difficult to maintain his composure, and his clasped fingers were restless. "I don't intend telling you," said Lewin. "You've gone up in my estimation since last night. You're a damned sight cleverer man than I thought you, Tom. You've pulled off a brilliant stroke of business. I wish to Heaven I'd thought of it myself!" He lay back in his chair, and then laughter crackled on his lips. "Come on, out with it, Tom!"

"Mysterious words—I do not understand," said Tom Young hoarsely. Lewin sat up in his chair, and the snap of his bony fingers went through the room like a pistol shot. "You stole those documents yourself!"

The blood drained from Young's yellow skin, leaving it a curious grey tint. The man opened his mouth as if to speak, then closed the dry, trembling lips.

"I was to take another music lesson to-day, but fortunately I had a toothache."

Uncle Wiggily and the Ice Elf

(By HOWARD E. GARIS.)

Hiding behind the leafless bush in what had been a dingy dell, but which little valley was now more like a booby nook, Uncle Wiggily looked at the little man sitting on a rock near the spring of water.

"What sort of game is he playing?" asked the rabbit gentleman, who had hopped away from his hollow stump bungalow to find an adventure that was both funny and exciting at the same time.

For, indeed, it did seem to be a sort of game the funny little man was playing beside the spring in the booby nook. While Uncle Wiggily watched, as I told you last night, the little man twice blew his breath on the water of the rocky-bound spring. Each time the water shimmered, but each time the little man said:

"Not cold enough."

Now, as Uncle Wiggily still watched, the little man drew in a third breath and for the third time blew it out over the water of the spring. Each time the water shimmered, but each time the little man said:

"Not cold enough."

The water seemed to bubble and boil, and then it became strangely still and a film spread over it, a white film like the lace of a curtain.

"Ha! Ha! Ha!" laughed the little man. "I guess I made it cold enough this time!"

He leaned down and touched a tiny finger to the top of the water. His finger, instead of dipping in and getting wet, stayed on top, though the little man pushed it hard.

"Cold enough now?" he chuckled. "Cold enough now. It's frozen!"

Then, all at once, Uncle Wiggily knew who the little man was.

"The ice elf!" exclaimed the rabbit gentleman, laughing out loud before he remembered that he was supposed to be quiet and remain in hiding.

"That's who he is—the ice elf!"

"Hello! Who's there?" called the little man, jumping back from the edge of the spring and looking spread. "I know any one was spying on me," he said, and he puffed out his red cheeks.

"I wasn't exactly spying on you," said Uncle Wiggily, hopping out from behind the bush. "I came to the booby nook, that in summer is a dingy dell, to see if I could find a funny and exciting adventure."

"Well, did you?" asked the little man.

"Yes, Jack. I think I did," answered the rabbit, still laughing.

"Ha! How did you know my name?" asked the ice elf.

"That's who I am," was the answer. "But how did you know?"

"Not meaning to spy, I have been watching you, thinking you might bring me an adventure," said Uncle Wiggily. "And I think you have already."

"Do you call that an adventure?" asked Jack Frost, for that was the name of the ice elf. He pointed to the spring which was now covered with a heavy film of ice.

"Yes, I call that an adventure," said Mr. Longears. "It's the start of a jolly adventure. For if you can freeze a spring, you can freeze ponds, rivers and lakes and the children will be skating when the ice is safe. And skating is always a jolly adventure."

"So it is!" agreed Jack Frost. "But you spoke about an exciting adventure."

"That may come later," spoke Mr. Longears. "For this year, first visit around here."

"For this reason, yes," answered Jack Frost. "I came down from the North Pole last night. Uncle Wiggily wanted to see about Santa Claus, but he decided to wait. I always practice a bit of ice skating."

"It was a funny adventure to watch you," laughed Uncle Wiggily. "But now I'd like to have you make me an exciting adventure."

"I don't believe I can do that," said Jack, shaking his head.

"Yes, you can! Look!" suddenly whispered Uncle Wiggily. "Here comes the Bob-cat after tea. See, he is standing up on the bank in a puddle of water that isn't frozen. In a moment he'll jump on me!"

"Oh, no he will not!" cried Jack Frost. "With that he blew his cold breath on the puddle of water in which the Bob Cat was standing. In a moment the puddle was frozen into ice, trapping the Bob Cat there."

"Oh, woe is me!" I'm caught!" howled the Bob Cat, as the rabbit and Jack Frost laughed and ran away. And if the egg beater will let a pink ribbon on the snow above and bring it up out of the coal bin, I'll tell you next about Uncle Wiggily's tin skates.

Many Novelties At I.O.D.E. Bazaar

Many charming novelties suitable for Christmas gifts have been prepared for the bazaar which the Commodore Hotel will hold in the New Theatre Hall on Thursday afternoon from 3.00 till 6.00 o'clock. In addition to the usual attractions, a dainty afternoon tea will be served and a musical programme is being arranged. The proceeds will be devoted to the chapter's philanthropic work.

PLANS TO SEE WORLD FROM AIR

New York, Nov. 14.—Aviator Margery Brown, founder of the "99 Club," has a unique ambition. She wants to have certified flying time in every country in the world.

Having flown extensively in Canada, the United States and Cuba, she is starting out soon to circle the globe by steamer, stopping where she wants to for whatever flying strikes her fancy. She will go first to Honolulu, Samoa, and the South Sea Islands, then Australia, Java, Borneo, Bali, China, Japan and India.

"Flying has given me the only independence I ever had," she says. "Before I began to fly, I was so helpless that my husband's secretary had to buy my ticket and help me get packed and to the train. Now I'm off all alone, looking after everything myself."

"There is no question but that flying develops one's sense of adventure. And women love adventure. I've been married for five years. They love their homes, their husbands and children; but deep down in their hearts they nearly all wish they could take a few years off the face of the world, before they settle down for good. So I'm flying. I don't expect to be back for two whole years."

Your Baby and Mine

By MYRTLE MEYER ELDRED

SCALES TEST ACCURATE STORY-OF

Some situations cry for immediate relief and yet mothers are blind to them. Indifference to the weight chart is a far greater evil than slavish adherence to it. We have to know how much children are gaining and how this gain compares with the normal gain; otherwise we ignore situations which demand changing.

Mrs. W. R. G. says her baby of eight months seems to be in good health, but doesn't sleep well at night. She weighed ten pounds at birth and now weighs fifteen. She is nursed every three hours, but doesn't seem to be satisfied for the full time. She has had some wheezing. For the last two weeks she has been cutting teeth and looks peaked but shows no other signs of illness. She has loose bowels.

Most babies gain about twelve pounds in eight months, this baby has gained only five. She started out being an extraordinarily large baby, and is now much below normal weight for her age. The mother has been nursing her better than other babies demand nursing and yet the baby is not satisfied. But so far the mother has never questioned the wisdom of continuing breast-feeding even in the face of this demand.

The baby needs to be weaned right away. She needs cereal twice daily, orange juice and vegetables once daily, cod liver oil after each meal. Mothers faced with the same situation may take advantage of my leaflets called "How to Wean the Breast-Fed Baby," and "Feeding from Two to Nine Months," by sending a self-addressed stamped envelope to this department with each request.

The weaning of Mrs. G.'s baby should be started immediately, and the other foods should be initiated in small amounts to be increased cautiously to avoid a strain on the digestive organs. The most accurate index of baby's well-being is his ability to gain weight. That ability is always present when the diet is correct.

Roy Gaunt Having Another Fine Season in English Rugby

Japanese Swimmers Make Remarkable Progress in Few Years

Edmonton Grads Out to Prove Their Right to Hoop Honors

ROY Gaunt, well-known Victoria English rugby player, who turned professional to join the Rochdale Hornets in England, is enjoying another great season according to word received by his relatives in this city. Gaunt was unlucky at the beginning of the season in suffering a bad thigh bruise. He was out of the game for two matches but now returned to action. In a recent match with Castleford, Gaunt, playing his first match after being hurt, scored one try and gave an assist for the other to lead the Hornets to a 3 to 0 victory.

The following item appeared in an English newspaper and gives a good idea of just what the critics over there think of the Victoria boy's playing: "Aynsley's fall from grace is in the nature of a mystery. He has been suffering cold and from leg trouble, and these may be the cause. It will have been duly noted of course, that Roy Gaunt has been out of the side in the last two matches, suffering from a nasty thigh bruise. I do not suggest that Gaunt could have stemmed the tide of defeat, but he would have made some difference, even though Beattie filled the position so valiantly. But Gaunt's value to the side lies just as much in what he might do as in what he does; opponents have always to keep more than a couple of eyes on him and are inclined to be more particular about letting the ball go loose when he is about, because they have learned that Gaunt with the ball in hand is just as much as dangerous a customer as there is in the Rugby League. Gaunt may not be an ideal centre, but he is always a menace to the opposition defence. He makes the other fellows uneasy and nervous, and that is often more than half the battle."

Unquestionably the finest nation of swimmers in the world at present day, are the Japanese whose progress in this sport during the last few years has been remarkable. Almost daily new records are established by these astounding swimmers, who consistently shatter world marks at nearly every big aquatic meeting.

Shozo Makino, who although only eighteen years of age, has added yet another by swimming the 400 meters free-style in 4 minutes, 46 and 8-10ths seconds which beats by tenths of a second the record previously held by Jean Tria, France, who put up his figures in 1931.

Shoji Kiyokawa, another youthful prodigy who when sixteen years of age won the 100 meters backstroke during the Olympic Games at Los Angeles last year, put up new figures during the same meeting for the 400 meters backstroke which he swam in the world's record time of 5 minutes, 30 and 4-10ths seconds, which easily beats the record held by his countryman Toshio Iryo who in 1928 swam the distance in 5 minutes 42 seconds.

A third world record was broken when a newcomer Kimiyoshi Takemura a freshman at the Waseda University swam the 50 meters free-style in 26 seconds dead. Miss Hidoko Mayehata, undoubtedly the best breast stroke swimmer the world has ever seen added yet another record to her long list when she swam the 200 meters breast stroke in 3 minutes, 4-10ths seconds to beat easily the previous world record of 3 minutes 3 and 4-10ths, established easily by the Danish swimmer Miss Eise Jacobsen last year.

Edmonton Grads apparently determined to establish their right to hold the Underwood Trophy, emblematic of women's international basketball supremacy, have challenged the Durant, Okla. team to a series. Coach Percy Page of the Grads issued the following statement in making the challenge: "Both Coach Babb of Durant and J. L. Bingham, assistant to the president of the American A.A.U., have stated that the teams we have played during the last ten years have been merely second-rate teams, and that we are keeping the Underwood trophy from Durant on a mere technicality.

"As a matter of fact, we can neither keep the trophy nor give it away unless ordered to do so by the board of trustees. The donor of the trophy J. J. Seitz and chairman of the board is absolutely opposed to turning over the trophy to Durant, and it is most unfair to suggest that own team is to blame. The responsibility really lies with the Durant team not conforming with the regulations governing the trophy.

"We have never belittled the win which the Durant girls put over on us here last June. They played wonderful basketball, just a little better than we did. Nevertheless, the implication that we are afraid to meet them again is ridiculous. As a matter of fact we shall be only too glad to have the opportunity of playing them again, and offering to play the first two games of a possible five-game series on their own floor, even the most prejudiced fan will have to admit that the Grads are not lacking in courage."

A workout of the Spanish Thistles first division soccer team will be held at night at the Athletic Park, starting at 8 o'clock. All players are asked to attend.

O.R.F.U. STAR TEAM SELECTED

Power Features All-star Squad Picked From Teams in Ontario Union

Norman Perry Is Leading Half-back; Johnny Metras Gets Snap Position

Toronto, Nov. 16.—Packed with extraordinary punting power, one of the wing line to the other, a massive blocking unit that yet was not top-heavy defensively, was assembled to-day from the ranks of the Ontario Rugby Football Union as the first all-star O.R.F.U. team.

Coaches and sports writers who selected the team for the Canadian press balloted heavily in favor of a sturdy wing line. They voted into place on the mythical squad a tremendous front flank, and behind it they stood one of the great kickers of football, the most brilliant ball-carrier in the union, the best field general.

The line-up follows: Flying wing—Claude Harris, Sarnia, and Art Snyder, Balmy Beach (Itd). Half—Norman Perry, Sarnia. Half (secondary defence)—Hugh Stirling, Sarnia. Quarter—Alex Hayes, Sarnia. Snap—Johnny Metras, St. Michael's. Inside—Norman Mountain, Hamilton. Middle—Johnny Baker, Sarnia. Middle—Clarence Burr, St. Michael's. Middle—Gil Putnam, Sarnia. Outside—Jim Reynolds, Balmy Beach. Outside—James Burke, St. Michael's. Metras, former Detroit University captain, came to St. Michael's college at the start of the season to make the Irish one of the most feared teams in the union.

Beside the 185-pound Michigan defensive ace are Mountain, mainstay of Hamilton's Cubs' mid-section, and Bobby Porter, Balmy Beach running back, who weighs 224 pounds, who moved to Sarnia from Hamilton. Putnam, 190 pounds of blocking and plunging ferocity and the immense bulk of St. Michael's, who weighs 224 pounds, were standout performers at middle wing.

Reynolds did everything for Balmy Beach that an outside wing could do, tackled well, caught forward passes, blocked. Perry, rated by some critics as the greatest running half in Canada, was the number one choice for the back-field with given votes. Connolly, as versatile as Hayes, got five to edge out Bobby Porter, Balmy Beach, running and kicking half, by a single vote. Stirling, who kicks as well as any and better than all but one or two in the east, gained seven votes for the secondary defence-half position.

COAST LEAGUE FOOTBALL PLAYERS ARE REPRIMANDED

At yesterday evening's meeting of the Lower Island Football Association three players and one team manager were up on the carpet. Members of the L.I.F.A. refused to make any statement to-day on the action taken at the meeting but it has been learned that Freddie Price, Sammie Thistles, and Tommy Smith, Victoria West, were severely reprimanded, while "Scotty" Robinson, Victoria West, was exonerated. Price and Smith were sent off the field by Referee D. Swan for ungentlemanly conduct. Manager Bert Wetherall, Victoria City, who was also reported by Saunders, was reprimanded. It is understood the L.I.F.A. members instructed their secretary to communicate with the referees instructing them to put a halt to all rough play in future Coast League matches.

Bodyline Bowling Is Up Once Again

Australian and English Cricketers Exchange Cables on Difficult Problem

Latest Discussion Expected to Clear Way For Australian Tour Next Summer

Melbourne, Australia, Nov. 16.—Cables were exchanged to-day between British and Australian cricket control boards relative to "bodyline bowling" when the Australians tour England next summer. Although contents of the cables were not made public, it is believed the tour will not be adversely affected.

On account of Australian resentment at the style of bowling adopted by Harold Lawford of the English team on the last English tour of Australia is seemed for a time doubtful whether the Australians would visit England as scheduled. A recent meeting of the Australian board, however, announced itself satisfied with assurance of the M.C.C. bowling obviously aimed at the batsman would not be allowed.

WINE DISSATISFIED Some members of the Australian board continued dissatisfied because the M.C.C. did not expressly forbid "bodyline bowling." Consequently the Australian board met again to-day when the cable from the M.C.C. was studied and one sent in reply.

Contents of the messages will be kept secret until the M.C.C. has had a chance to study the Australian reply, but in some quarters the opinion was expressed, contrary to jeopardizing the Australian tour, the latest exchange would largely clear the way. Dates have already been fixed for the Australians in England next summer, including the usual five test matches.

Large Gates Are Continual Menace To Amateur Sport

President J. H. Crocker Makes Plea For Amateurism at the Opening of A.A.U. Session

SPORTSMANSHIP IS MAIN FACTOR

Recreation of Youth Must Be Protected; Union's Finances in Good Condition

Winnipeg, Nov. 16.—Sportsmanship in playing the game with achievement of victory secondary to-day was posted as the pilot light for the Amateur Athletic Union of Canada, by J. H. Crocker, London, Ont., the union's president.

Marking the opening of the forty-sixth annual meeting of the union, Crocker declared in his presidential address the necessity of sportsmanship being the goal of all athletes. Besides the president's message with its warning against monetary reward, the delegates heard the report of the secretary, John Leslie, Edmonton, and the report of the registration committee showing a total membership of 21,368.

"The cornerstone of this organization is the sportsmanship of the youth of this nation," declared Crocker in warning that large gate receipts in many lines of sport were a continual menace to amateurism. Because of the large gate receipts, temptation was placed before athletes and a type of game demanding winning teams threatened.

KEY TO SUCCESS The key to success and satisfactory protection of amateur sport in Canada rested with the branches and allied bodies, said Crocker. Branch committees should be thoroughly representative of the youth of the community, have jurisdiction, and their business should be conducted in such a manner as to assure them the confidence of the public.

Leslie's report declared, despite criticisms, the union was carrying on with the best interests of the youth of the Dominion at heart, and doing its best to provide clean, healthy recreation and competition. He outlined proposals for the British Empire games in Canada in 1934.

Suggestions for providing the registration committee with general supervision over registration of athletes and power to act in cases where irregularities were reported were included in the committee's report submitted by W. A. Fry, Dunnville, Ont., chairman. Means of keeping branch registration committees in closer touch with the national committee were urged.

REGISTRATION FIGURES Registration of athletes, totaling 21,368, was divided as follows: Alberta, 1,657; British Columbia, 1,200; Manitoba, 673; Maritime Provinces, 2,049; Ontario, 10,773; Ottawa and District, 938; Quebec, 2,381; Saskatchewan, 1,308; Thunder Bay, 392. Only seniors were involved in the count.

The report of treasurer, C. C. Robinson, Winnipeg, showed a surplus of receipts over disbursements of $1,614.57. Receipts totaled $4,164.48, and disbursements totaled $2,549.91. Branches totaled $400; fees from allied bodies amounted to $275, and fees from branches for registration cards totaled $729.50.

THROWN FROM RING Muskogee, Okla., Nov. 16.—Sult of Frank Thompson, wrestling referee, against Sam Avey, Tulsa and Oklahoma City promoter, and Gene Ellis, Muskogee promoter, for $10,400 damages was dismissed yesterday when attorneys announced a settlement.

Thompson was tossed from a ring here last April by Paul Orth, Cincinnati "bad boy," and suffered a fracture of a leg. The referee asserted all events on the wrestling programme were planned in advance, including the throwing of various combatants from the ring and "swatting of the referee."

He alleged he was not notified, however, that he was to be tossed out of the ring and that he was unprepared for the job.

Defeat Tilliums 41 to 27 to Take First Place in Men's Senior B Basketball Blue Ribbons Have Little Trouble Beating Slingers; Cardinals Are Winners Shooting and passing with great accuracy the Colonist Senior B hoopers took undisputed leadership of their division of the Victoria and District Basketball League yesterday evening at the High School gym by downing their strongest opponents, the Tilliums, 41 to 27. The Newbies earned their win and played the best ball they have exhibited this year. In the other games the Cardinals defeated the Hudson's Bay Intermediate A girls 35 to 10 and the Blue Ribbons defeated Slingers 39 to 20 in a senior men's clash.

The Colonist girls took an 18 to 10 lead in the first half through some fine offensive efforts on the part of McKeechie, Clarke and Moore. With the start of the final twenty minutes, McKeechie tossed in some beautiful baskets to further increase the Colonist lead. The Hudson's Bay Intermediate A girls, star centre of the Colonist was banished from the game via the four personal rule when he clashed with Pasmore late in the final half.

McKeechie STARS McKeechie was really the offensive star of the game as his baskets were well-earned while Stipe collected thirteen points to lead the scoring parade with some fine efforts.

With Ed Martin and Art Chapman each collecting ten points the Ribbons coasted to another easy win in the senior division at the expense of Slingers. The champions held a 15 to 6 lead at half time and increased it in the second half.

After holding the strong Cardinals for the first quarter, the Hudson's Bay Intermediate cracked and their opponents ran in baskets practically at will. Vivian Hannan, with sixteen points, led the Slingers.

Garrison Scores Seventh Victory In Soccer League

Continue Fine Form in Wednesday Loop to Turn Back Spencers 3 to 1

HUDSON'S BAY, NAVY, WINNERS

Former Defeats Maccabees 3 to 0; Sailors Blank Liberals 4 to 0

Garrison's smooth working soccer eleven yesterday afternoon took an iron grip on the Hayward Cup, emblematic of the Wednesday Football League championship, when it continued the fine form which it has displayed all season to score its seventh successive victory at the expense of Spencer's, by a score of 3 to 1, at the Heywood Avenue grounds. Hudson's Bay and Navy took undisputed holds on second and third berths, respectively, by defeating Maccabees, 3 to 0, at Central Park, and James Bay Liberals, 4 to 0, at Beacon Hill. After yesterday's win it appears the Garrison is a cinch to take the league honors. Hudson's Bay has a slim chance of being deadlocked with the league leaders but to do this the departmentals must win their three remaining games while the Tommies will have to drop their last three encounters.

The Garrison-Spencers game was marred only by the poor shooting and lack of combination in the goal area of Spencer's, who several times had opportunities of equalizing, but failed. Art Chapman opened the scoring of the game when he headed the leather in from close quarters after a nice pass from left wing by "Tug" Wilson. The ball then went to the goalmouth of the departmentals, a single goal lead. Glendinning had no chance to save as the ball soared into the top corner of the net.

GARRISON EVENS COUNT

The Tommies opened up on the offensive and started hammering at Spencer's defence. Bissell and Cann, however, cleared several times when their goal was endangered and held off scoring until shortly before the interval when Jimmy Worwick scored with a floater from inside the penalty area to even the count. There was no other score before half time.

The last half had not been in progress ten minutes before Stan Richards and Munroe combined to give the Garrison a lead. Richards banged a hard drive from near midfield and as the ball neared the goal it grazed off Munroe's head before going in. Munroe, playing back for Spencers, endeavored to head the ball out but did not quite succeed and Goalie McMillan had no chance to save. Play was saved on the field for several minutes with Spencers doing most of the attacking. Wilson centred a number of nice passes from left wing but the centre man failed to take advantage of them.

WORWICK SCORES AGAIN

Jimmy Worwick scored the nicest goal of the game to put the Garrison in the bag for the Garrison. After taking a pass from Dick Miller well out,

Hockey Season Ushered In At Toronto

Previous to the commencement of the first 1933-34 National Hockey League game in Toronto, when the Maple Leafs defeated the Boston Bruins by 6 to 1, the N.H.L. pennant, won by the Toronto team after a grueling five-game series with the Bruins last spring, was presented to the Lieutenant-Governor, Colonel R. ALL-AMERICA BATTLE KEEN

Much Competition For Places on Mythical All-star U.S. Football Team

New York, Nov. 16.—It is nearly ten years since the most famous exponent of the All-America, Walter Camp, died but there appears no less enthusiasm than ever in the rush now under way to paste the all-star football labels for 1933 on the standard players from coast to coast.

Returns so far in the ninth annual Associated Press All-America consensus indicate observers have made more than usual difficulty making their choices.

A few examples: Cy Grant, Georgia backfield star, came north heralded by many Dixie experts as the south's leading All-America candidate, yet it was his running mate, Homer Key, who started in the Yale Bowl. Mike Stankiewicz, Pittsburgh back, has been "hot and cold" this season. A coast critic suggested Bill Corbush, Stanford guard, was below form this year but a few days later Corbush was almost the whole show in beating southern California.

The first half of the Navy-Liberals match was marked by flashes of good team work and snappy combination by both teams, but during the second stanza the youngsters were no match for the sailors, who rapped in four corners without receiving much opposition.

Navy missed one good chance to tally fifteen minutes after the game started when Roberts drove wide on a penalty kick.

The second canto was scoreless for fifteen minutes and then the Navy broke loose. Bennallack started the fireworks with a fast shot from left wing which baffled Bourne completely. Roberts scored the second with a piece of headwork. After drawing Bourne out of the circle, Roberts headed the ball over him for a goal.

Bennallack made it three for Navy five minutes later and the fourth came immediately after the face off, when Mars rushed in to beat Bourne with a snail drive. Liberals had an opportunity to score before the game ended when Davidson was awarded a penalty shot. Mundle, however, cleared well and staved off any Liberal intentions of scoring.

Tooby refereed.

The teams were:
Navy—Mundie, Hall, Dovey, Stone, McDonald, Sedgwick, Hibbert, Marr, Roberts, Bennallack and Walker.
James Bay Liberals—Bourne, Eastwood, Campbell, Rocaamp, Belford, W. McBride, Obee, A. McBride, Davidson, Thame and Miller.

Are Men Strong, Brave Creatures Suffering Every Hardship in Silence?—Ask Any Wife Who Has Had to Endure Her Husband's Headache! This Is Only One of Many Points on Which Women Deceive Themselves Before Marriage

OF COURSE, no woman any more understands a man than a man ever understands a woman. That is why they are of perpetual interest to each other, and one of the chief reasons they marry is to have their jigsaw puzzle always handy to work on. But they never finish it up and get the complete picture of the why and wherefore that motivated the other's conduct.

Now while this lack of comprehension between the sexes is interesting and provocative, for we all like to try to guess riddles, it causes men and women to make many mistakes and get many queer ideas about each other that have no foundation in fact. Especially does it cause women to cherish some quaint notions about men.

For instance: For ages and ages, doubtless ever since Adam told the unsophisticated and credulous Eve the first fairy story about how great and wonderful he was, women have devoutly believed that all men were strong, brave, silent creatures who endured every hardship without ever making a sign of the pain they were suffering. They thought that it was only weak women who grew hysterical and who made great outcries over unpleasant trifles.

Hence it is the shock of every bride's life when she discovers that her here not only has feet of clay but is mostly made of mud, and that he goes into tantrums like a child when dinner is ten minutes late, or there is boiled mutton when he was looking for roast beef, and that the language that he uses when his collar button rolls under the bureau is fit for no lady's ears.

And as for the stoical endurance of pain to which she expected to be an admiring witness, she finds out that every time hubby has the headache or the "migraine" he is scared blue and puts in a hurry call for the doctor, and thinks he is going to die and wants her to sit by the bed and hold his hand, and that he makes more fuss over a pin-prick than a woman does over a major operation.

Then every woman is born with a subtle conviction that every man is a money-maker and a Napoleon of finance and knows which way the stock market is going to jump, just because he is of the masculine persuasion. That is the reason girls marry in the reckless way they do, without ever taking the trouble to find out whether their prospective husbands have a dollar in the bank, or a job, or any way whatever to support a family. The girl is convinced, that the boy, being a man, is bound to be a Henry Ford who will be able to give her limousines and things.

And not even having to earn the bread and butter herself and finding out that he is a visionary dreamer with the money sense of a white rabbit shakes her faith. Every day you see shrewd, successful business women listening with bated breath while some man whose mother or wife is supporting him discourses on the trend of the market.

Another queer idea that women have is that men don't feel about their family and friends as they do. A woman would be perfectly shocked if, when she got married, her husband forced her to give up her mother and father and sisters and brothers, and to part from all of her girl friends and only meet them on the sly now and then downtown. Why, she couldn't be that dastardly. She couldn't be that disloyal. She couldn't do anything that would hurt her own people, who have been so tender and kind to her all her life.

But she doesn't think her husband loves his family as she loves hers. She doesn't think that he is grateful to his mother for all of her devotion and sacrifices, and that he is bound to his brothers and sisters by a thousand ties of affection. She doesn't think he would mind giving up the men friends who interest him, who stimulate him and who have stood by him in trouble a hundred times.

It is because brides actually believe that their husbands don't care about anybody but themselves that makes so many young wives use every effort to separate their husbands from their mothers and shoulder their old friends out of the house. Practically every home you know is filled up with the wife's friends and the wife's relatives. Husband isn't supposed to want any of his own.

Another queer idea of women is that men enjoy being reformed. No woman likes to be told of her faults, but she cherishes a deathless illusion that a man is simply having the time of his life when his wife is correcting his grammar and pronunciation, and trying to change all of his personal habits and generally cut him over according to her little perforated pattern of what a husband should be.

Why wives do this is one of the insoluble mysteries of feminine psychology, because every woman knows that the way she got her husband was by flattery him and making him believe that she considered him the most wonderful person in the world, and that the reason he married her was to secure to himself a perpetual admiring audience. No woman would dare use on a man before marriage the tactics she does after marriage, yet wives go on skinning their husbands' vanity alive, apparently under the impression that they can make them like it.

But queerest of all the ideas that women have about men is that they have no need of tenderness and sympathy and understanding, and that they are never heart-hungry as women are. They labor under the conviction that a man is content to take his wife's love for love, and when she lavishes all of her affection on the children and gives him none. That he considers it a privilege to be permitted to tell to support a family without anybody even saying "thank you" to him. That he is never lonely, never troubled, never would like to have any of the money he earns for himself, never would like just to go off with a man friend. And it never even occurs to these women that a man wants a wife who isn't a human refrigerator or a mother of a gold-digger, and that being a man hasn't made him immune to being a human being.

Funny, the ideas women have about men, isn't it? DOROTHY DIX.
